*Haunted Silicone Mass

Booth P4 - POSITIONS

Pequ<sup>Pq Co.</sup> Co.

From December 6th - 10th

Pequod Co. is proud to announce a solo project by Andrew Roberts (b. Tijuana, 1995), which marks its third participation at Art Basel Miami Beach's POSITIONS sector.

Haunted Silicone Mass confronts the spectator with two narratives that melt into each other. On the surface, a speculative fiction about the past of a certain multi-species engineering. Within it, a meta-modern analysis about its own condition as a method of production.

Considering that fictions generate reality and that Role-playing games grant tools to re-think and re-configure the present in a critical way, Roberts weaves a fable in synch with pre-human, fictitious forms of life. If our relationship with bodies of water has been historically mediated by fantastic otherness, is it possible to design a new tale?

The characters in Haunted Silicone Mass -- invoked via poems, digital animations, and sculptures -- are suspended in a state of deep sleep where death and repose become indistinguishable from one another. As figures, they are marine creatures that dream about a non-human future. As artifices, they are haunted matter.

Articulating the project is Protean Silicone Mass, a digital film in three channels where silicone, a spectral entity, becomes self-aware. Conscious about its material history and instrumentalization in the fabrication of images, it kidnaps and transmutes into the bodies in the screens, then escapes to find its tangible form in the sculptures.

The pieces that comprise this assemblage are viscous and form changing. They assume their role as entities in a narrative play that employs science fiction's capacity of imagining utopias and, at the same time, recognize themselves as auto-generative mechanisms of mutant matter.
